Students study marketing principles and practices as they are applied to consumer and industrial products and services as well as in not-for-profit organizations. Additional topics include marketing in a global economy, marketing ethics, internet marketing and marketing information systems. Readings from the text are to be completed before the class meeting. Quizzes, exams, project presentations and other assignments will be announced. Full participation in all class discussions, small group decisions and the term project is required to receive a favorable 10% class participation grade. You are not fully participating if you are not in class, therefore, absences in excess of the equivalent of one week's class time will be considered strongly to undermine a favorable participation grade.

Class discussions will often center around a recent development in business which impacts on marketing. You are encouraged to bring current periodical articles and Internet web-site print outs of examples of current marketing activities to class to initiate those discussions.
