C. Semester Credit Hours: THREE (3)

D. Pre-requisites: "Introduction to Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice"
(CJS K101) and "Composition" (ENG K101) must be taken prior to this course.

III. COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This course involves comprehensive study of sources, distinctions and limitations relating to criminal law; the development of criminal law in the United States; the principles of criminal liability; the various crimes and their elements; and the criteria considered in determining capacity and defenses. Connecticut Penal Code is used to relate Model Penal Code and Common Law materials specifically to Connecticut. Case studies and briefs are used to emphasize the acts, the mental state and the attendant circumstances that are necessary ingredients in proving crimes.

IV. RATIONALE:

State and federal statutes affecting conduct prior to birth and extending beyond death guide individual behavior. Individuals are held accountable for their behavior during every waking moment. A vast legal network that outlines "appropriate" behavior regulates our society. Laws, or codes of conduct have been developed to assure a more tranquil existence for all members of society. Although this course is required for criminal justice students, anyone majoring in business or social science will benefit from this course.

V. GENERAL COURSE GOALS:

A. Knowledge:

1. To develop an understanding of criminal law as set forth in the State's Penal code.
2. To develop an understanding of the importance of "elements" of an offense and the manner in which proof of these elements is established in court.
3. To develop an understanding of the historical background of criminal law and the basic elements of common law crimes.

V. (Continued)

B. Attitude and Skills:

1. To develop an awareness of the complexities involved in the criminal law process.
2. To identify elements of crimes and relate these to individual conduct of persons.
3. To appreciate the scope and purposes of the criminal law.
4. To appreciate the common defenses available to those charged with
5. To read case reports, briefs and answer specific questions concerning the Cases in writing. (Typewritten – single sided – #12 font – 1” margins – double line spacing – following the prescribed format provided).

VI. INSTRUCTIONAL METHODS:

Lectures, discussions, handouts, reading and writing assignments, class participation, case histories, written responses to discussion questions and visual aids, including PowerPoint©.
