English 101, Composition
Spring Semester 2007
Instructor: Jennifer MacVeigh
E-Mail: Jennifer.k.macveigh@pfizer.com
Work Phone: (860) 732-8216
Room: KMOH 102
Monday 6:30-9:15 p.m.

Required Texts:
- A Writer’s Reference, Diana Hacker (5th Edition)
- Writing the World: Reading and Writing About Issues of the Day, Charles R. Cooper and Susan Peck MacDonald
- Dictionary and Thesaurus of your choosing

Class Information:

According to the Instructor’s Handbook at Three Rivers Community College, at the end of this class you should be able to:

- Read and understand essays offering differing points of view on a topic.
- Compare or contrast various perspectives on a topic.
- Analyze a particular perspective or argument on a topic and evaluate its relative merits.
- Develop your own perspective on a topic and state that perspective clearly in a written “thesis.”
- Support the thesis with specific and detailed evidence from readings, from research, and from personal observations and experience.
- Document information from sources using MLA parenthetical format.
- Recognize the reader as an intrinsic element in writing, and employ strategies that engage the reader.
- Craft effective sentences and paragraphs.
- Employ strategies for effective major revision of writing, including attention to organization and paragraph coherence.
- Employ strategies for effective editing, including attention to grammar and usage.
- Conduct basic library research, including accessing print and electronic databases.
- Collaborate with others in analyzing writing, developing points of view, conducting research, and revising drafts.

That’s a pretty hefty list, but well worth the effort it will take to achieve. Throughout the semester you will be asked to think and write critically; which, when translated into laymen’s terms, means that I expect you to begin to examine cultural issues from various angles and viewpoints and develop well-reasoned positions and comments.

Please note: If as a result of the placement test, you were advised to take ENG 075 or 108 and you have not done so, you place yourself at a serious disadvantage in this class. It will be very difficult for you to achieve the objectives of this course without basic skills. I strongly advise you to take 075 or 108 before taking ENG 111.

In order to meet the goals of this class, we will need to have the following ground rules:

Attendance: Writing is a social process, which can only be improved through practice and interaction. In order to participate in a class you must be there (both mentally and physically). A semester is quite a long period of time, so I understand there will be instances where a class may need to be missed. I expect these to be kept to a minimum, and you are responsible for all material you missed in that class (ask a classmate to take notes for you and bring you up to speed). Your grade will suffer after three absences.

Tardiness is disruptive to the class. Habitual tardiness will be detrimental to your grade.

Class Cancellations: In the event of an emergency causing me to cancel class unexpectedly, I will notify each of you via the e-mail or phone number you have provided on your student information sheets.

Class Participation: This includes a number of things: preparation (reading and writing assignments done on time); active participation in group and class activities, as well as in your individual conferences with me; preparation for and active participation in peer workshops (which means asking questions about your own paper as well as others’ papers); LISTENING to others when they are speaking.

Conferences: During the semester, classes may be shortened or replaced for individual conferences with me. These conferences will be indicated on the course schedule. Bring all of your work with you and anything specific you may wish to discuss.

You may also request a conference at any time during the semester. We can schedule them before or after class, or on another night depending upon need.

Assignments and Grades: I will be happy to discuss your progress at any time during the semester. Please bear in mind that all formal writing assignments must be typed, and one page of text is equivalent to 250 words per page.

Ultimately, your final grade will be based roughly on this formula:

Written Homework 10%
Throughout the semester, you will have various kinds of written homework assignments. These assignments will help you to better understand the issues being discussed in class, and serve as additional composition practice. I will track your completion of these assignments and assign you either a check plus, check, check minus or zero based upon your performance. These marks will then be averaged for 10 percent of your course grade. Homework that is one class period late will be docked one level, and no homework will be accepted more than one week late.

Class Participation 10%
Sharing your ideas with others (as painful as some of you may imagine that to be), both in discussion and in writing, is an important part of this class. Additionally, we will participate in a number of in-class activities throughout the semester. It is important that you attend class, complete in-class activities, come with assignments prepared, and enter into class discussions. This will help you to explore and develop ideas you will write about.

Research Paper

Research Paper: 7-9 Pages 20%

Timeliness of Essays and Research Paper

Each time a draft of an essay or your research paper is due, we will have a “peer review” session in class, which is important. IF YOU MISS A PEER REVIEW DAY AND DO NOT E-MAIL ME YOUR DRAFT, OR IF YOU COME TO CLASS WITHOUT A FULL DRAFT FOR REVIEW YOU WILL BE DOCKED ONE LETTER GRADE FOR THAT ASSIGNMENT IN THE FINAL TALLY AT THE END OF THE SEMESTER.

Criteria for Evaluation

The writing in the polished final essays will be judged primarily on the quality of the product:

1. How effectively you have formulated an interesting idea relevant to the issues under discussion, and how well you have stated your thesis;
2. How fully you have developed your ideas and how skillfully you have organized them;
3. How well you have used the conventions of grammar, usage and MLA documentation format where appropriate.

Please Note: Submission of all essays is required to pass this course, and the final essays must be submitted on time. Late essays will not be accepted.

Additionally, I must see your writing in progress, especially the research paper. I will not accept a paper on the last day of class that I have not seen progressing throughout the semester.

Other Expectations and Requirements

Presentation of Work

All written work must be typed. Handwritten work will not be accepted, unless clearly indicated on the assignment. Please use standard type size (12 point font) and margins no larger than one inch. Double-space lines and indent paragraphs. Use a plain style font – no italic or script. If you are not familiar with using a word processing program on a computer, please see the Tutoring Center and get some assistance.
IT IS YOUR RESPONSIBILITY TO KEEP A COPY OF ANY WORK THAT YOU SUBMIT

Academic Honesty
Plagiarism is a violation of academic honesty. It occurs when you take credit for someone else’s work and submit it as your own, either intentionally or merely through sloppy documentation of sources. Any plagiarized work in any portfolio will result in an F for that portfolio and possibly an F for the semester.

Messages and Conferences
If you need to reach me, please do not hesitate to call me at the office (860-732-8216) during normal business hours.

I, like most of you, work full time in addition to my time here at Three Rivers, and therefore do not have standing office hours (or an office!). I am willing to meet with students for conferences on your work, either before or after class, or by special appointment. Please do not hesitate to make an appointment with me at any time throughout the semester.
