Introduction:

Everyday there are changes in the world that have a direct impact on our lives. Whether it is ethnic wars, race conflicts, or growing globalization, a deeper understanding of humanity has become a necessity for individual success if not our very survival. The study of anthropology is an invaluable tool for developing that understanding. This course is designed to introduce you to the four subfields of anthropology (physical anthropology, archaeology, linguistics, and cultural anthropology) as well as a brief look at an emerging fifth field called applied anthropology. Through this holistic investigation of the human experience you should come away with an increased appreciation for the complexity of our cultural and physical existence.

Conduct:

Some simple rules to live by (if you want a good grade):

- 1. Arrive on time and stay for the entire class.
- 2. No more than 2 absences (after that it affects your grade).
- 3. No late assignments (See policy below).
- 4. Be respectful of your classmates and the professor.
- 5. Use the writing center.
- 6. Participate in class.
- 7. Read and abide the college's academic honesty policy.
- 8. Check Blackboard often.
- 9. Do not wait until the last minute to read the assignments.
- 10. Study!
- 11. Ask for help!

Academic Dishonesty:

Any form of cheating, including plagiarism, will result in the immediate failure of the assignment and an official report to academic officials. Please see me if you are unsure what constitutes plagiarism.

Late Assignments:

The simple thing is to just get your work in on time. However, for those who are unable to do this read on...

Any assignment turned in late will be graded on a pass/fail basis (a "pass" in this case will be graded as a "D" even if it is "A" level work). Late assignments will be assessed and returned at the Professor's convenience, no later than the last day of the semester.

Make-up exams will only be given at the discretion of the professor.

College Withdrawal Policy:

A student who finds it necessary to discontinue a course MUST complete a withdrawal form obtained from the Registrar's Office. Students may withdraw from class anytime during the first 13 weeks of the semester without obtaining permission of the instructor. Students who fail to properly withdraw, and discontinue coming to class, will be assigned an "F" grade. Eligibility for refund of tuition is based upon date of withdrawal through the registrar's office. Verbal withdrawals will not be accepted.

Learning or Physical Disabilities:

If you have a disability that may require classroom or test-taking modifications, please see me as soon as possible.

Class Communication:

All communication regarding this course, including weekly assignments, will be done via Blackboard. If you are not familiar with this system you should contact the IT Help Desk to arrange for assistance.

Required Texts:

The Essence of Anthropology, 2nd Ed, William A. Havilland, et al.

Assignments and Grading

4 Lab Exercises (200 points each for a total of 800)

We will complete a lab exercise for each of the 4 subfields of anthropology. For each lab you will write a 1-2 page report including a summary of your data and some critical analysis or response. Further details will be provided on a separate hand out. Most of your data collection will occur during class time. IT IS ESSENTIAL THAT YOU ATTEND CLASS DURING LABS!

8 Quizzes (200 points each for a total of 1600)

We will have a quiz about every two weeks. These will be online, multiple-choice questions that will assess your knowledge of the contents of your textbook terminology and concepts. The quizzes are timed and access it limited to one week. Further directions will be provided in the course shell.

Mid-Term Exam (500 points)

This will be an essay exam on the first half of the course (physical anthropology and archaeology). A study guide will be provided one week prior to the exam.

Final Essay (500 points)

This will be a comprehensive essay based on the entire semester's work. Details will be provided during the first day of class.

Final Grade will be determined by dividing your accumulated points by the total possible points.

Extra Credit (points determined by effort)

There are no pre-determined extra credit assignments, but periodically there will be opportunities announced in class.

Skulls Lab

There are no "make ups" for the lab exercises. Make up exams are at the professor's discretion.
