Course Description

Tai Chi was originally a form of internal Chinese martial art practiced for both its defense training and health benefits. Tai Chi today has become a modified exercise using all the techniques as a means to attain healing qualities rather than combative awareness. Unlike some exercises that can be learned simply from following diagrams, Tai Chi is a fluid movement that requires very deliberate and precise movements. It is therefore best to find an instructor who is qualified to demonstrate the Tai Chi movements and techniques. In this course, the same Tai Chi theory and movements created in ancient China and now practiced all over the world as a healing and relaxation exercise will be taught by Ms. Barbara Chan, a U.S.A.-certified Tai Chi instructor with a Tai Chi 3rd Degree Black Belt. Ms. Chan is also a nationally certified Chinese martial arts judge.

Tai Chi routines require the practitioners to be tranquil and calm, emphasizing slow and soft movements. Because particular mental focus is placed on the movement and breathing during the exercise, it is, therefore, often referred to as "moving meditation." This meditation in motion has recently been gaining popularity as a way to relieve pain, develop balance and enhance relaxation. Focused and rhythmic breathing emphasizes a relaxed body and encourages strong blood circulation. The slow and fluid movements practiced in Tai Chi improve the body's alignment, posture, strength, flexibility, coordination, balance, and stamina. Tai Chi provides practitioners with an overall toning and strengthening of specific muscles.

In the fall semester this course covers two sections of learning: a series of Chi Kung (Qigong) exercises and a simplified Tai Chi (Taiji) routine. Chi Kung is a breathing exercise on which Tai Chi is based. This breathing exercise is practiced in coordination with a set of pressure point stimulating movements, and is commonly used to prepare students for the more complicated Tai Chi moves. In the spring semester this course covers a more focused Tai Chi form. Tai Chi routines taught in this course (both fall and spring semesters) cover a bare-hand routine, and possibly a routine performed with a weapon such as a Tai Chi fan or a Tai Chi sword. Since the basics will be taught in each course, students do not need to have prior knowledge of Chi Kung or Tai Chi to take this course. A different set of Chi Kung exercise and/or a different Tai Chi routine will be taught each time this course is offered; therefore, this course can be repeated by those students who wish to obtain a more in-depth learning experience in the Tai Chi art form.

Objectives

With the completion of this course, students will be able to:

- relate and discuss the general principles and benefits of practicing Tai Chi

- exercise the proper way of breathing used in practicing Tai Chi
- use breathing effectively to enhance general well-being
- implement self-massage exercise to prevent common ailments and pressure point stimulating exercise to regulate blood flow (fall semester only)
- practice Tai Chi to enhance balance and promote relaxation
- do a set of Chi Kung exercise and/or a Tai Chi routine on their own
- identify each movement with its corresponding English name
- exercise proper protocol to greet and thank the instructor in Chinese

Course Content

1. Greeting the instructor at the beginning of each class in Chinese.
2. Routine warm-up and stretching exercise at the beginning of each class to prepare the body so as to prevent from injury during exercise.
3. Practice of Tai Chi breathing through Chi Kung exercises (fall semester only).
4. Practice moving meditation through Chi Kung exercises (fall semester only) and through Tai Chi routines.
5. Practice of body alignment and posture through Tai Chi movements to reduce stress on the spine.
6. Practice of weight transfer and joint flexing to improve balance, flexibility and coordination through Tai Chi.
7. Teaching of a “position sense” through Tai Chi to prevent accidents from falling.
8. Practice of using the spine as a pivot point to improve posture and reduce back pain.
9. Practice using the “inner stillness” to maintain a clear mind and focus and to release stress.
10. Cool-down exercise after practicing Chi Kung and/or Tai Chi.
11. Thanking the instructor at the end of each class in Chinese.

Text and Other Required Materials

No textbook is required for this course. The instructor will distribute handouts of notes for the forms and routines she teaches. Check with the instructor about the availability of videos of movements taught in each class on the course web site, so students can review and practice at home.

Comfortable loose garments and a pair of soft-sole sneakers are ideal for practicing Chi Kung and Tai Chi in. No mat is needed for practicing Tai Chi.

Optional Materials: If needed, videos can be purchased from the instructor.

Teaching Methods

1. Review: Old moves will be reviewed before new ones are taught to ensure that students have learned the moves correctly.
2. Demonstrations: The instructor will demonstrate new moves to be taught, highlighting important points of each move.
3. Teaching: The instructor will teach hand and leg movements separately, and then combine both. Students will follow the instructor’s moves, imitating as closely as possible and at the same time applying the ideas of important points highlighted by the instructor.
4. Repetition: All old and new moves are repeated during each class to ensure that students have learned the moves so they can practice at home by themselves.

5. Evaluation Method: The instructor will observe each student's performance during class, and a test will be conducted at the end of the course to ensure comprehension.

Student Preparation:

Appropriate Mental Readiness: Students should come to class with a peaceful, happy and positive attitude. Be polite and kind to one another.

Appropriate Attire: Students should wear comfortable clothing that does not limit movements, soft-sole sneakers, and definitely no bare feet.

Protocol: Be punctual. Greet your instructor at the beginning of each class, and thank her at the end of the class. If for any reason you are late for the class, do a little stretching on your own before catching up with the class without disturbing your fellow classmates. Space may be tight in the studio, so please be considerate and mindful of your fellow classmates. However, each student is responsible for locating himself/herself at a spot where he/she is visible to the instructor and the instructor can see him/her.

Course Expectations:

Practice: It is of utmost importance that all students practice at home as often as they can, but especially on the same day after the class. If a student really cannot practice on the same day, he/she should at least try to practice mentally. This way one will not forget the new moves and thus will not hinder practice for a whole week until the next class. It will be a waste of an entire week without practice. This may also affect the progress of the entire class having to go over the old moves again because a few students have not practiced during the week. Remember: practice makes perfect. Practicing the forms is the only required homework for this course.

Test: There will be no written test for this course. But in order to evaluate students' performance and their understanding for this course, the instructor will conduct a test at the end of the semester. For the test, each student is expected to be able to perform the forms independently and individually, or in small groups, as the instructor sees fit. When asked, students are expected to know the names of each move in English.

Attendance and Participation Policy: Students wishing to withdraw from this class must go to the Registrar's Office and fill out the proper withdrawal form by February 6, 2013 for partial tuition refund. Not following proper withdrawal procedures will result in receiving a failing grade for the course. All students are encouraged to attend ALL classes scheduled and must participate in the physical exercise in class, unless the instructor's permission is sought before each class begins. Attendance will be taken by the instructor each time the class meets. As this is a credit course, students must treat this course as all other academic credit courses. If, for a justifiable reason, a student knows he/she cannot come to class on a certain day, advance notice to the instructor is required, unless it is an emergency. Supporting documents (e.g., doctor's note) must be submitted in order for an absence to be excused. If a student misses more than 5 classes, he/she will receive an "F" for the course. Discipline is one of the important elements to be learned in the study of Tai Chi. Learning is achieved largely through participation in class, so it is very important to practice the discipline that all Tai Chi practitioners are expected to cultivate.

Disabilities Policy: If you have a question regarding a disability that may affect your progress in this course, please contact one of the college's Disability Service Providers as soon as possible. Chris Scarborough (860-892-5751/Room A-119) generally works with students who have Learning Disabilities, Attention Deficit Disorder, or Asperger's Syndrome (Chris's position is part-time). Kathleen Gray (860-885-2328/Room A-119) generally works with students who have physical, visual, hearing, medical, mobility, or psychiatric disabilities. Please note that an instructor cannot provide disability academic adjustments until a student provides the necessary paperwork from the college's Office of Disability Services to the instructor. Also, academic adjustments take effect when the instructor receives the paperwork from a student; academic adjustments are not provided retroactively.

Grading Policy

All students will receive a letter grade for the physical exam at the end of the semester, basing on their class participation and their ability to perform the forms and routines taught in the semester.
