Course Description:

This course will be a survey of the diplomatic, economic, political, social, cultural and intellectual history of Europe from 1914 to the present, highlighting its relationship with the rest of the world. For this particular semester, we will be using feature films in class as a means to further understand this history.

Learning Goals:

At the end of the course, students will understand, synthesize and evaluate the history of Europe from 1914 to the present.

Learning Objectives:

Actively engage in the learning process through demonstrated success on the final research paper.

- Propose, formulate and organize research materials
  - o Evaluate and assess evidence and arguments
- Synthesize material in new ways

Actively engage in the learning process through demonstrated success on examinations.

- Identify figures and events
- Explain connections between figures and events
- Articulate central themes

Method of Evaluation:

Homework Assignments – Because of the nature of the course, you will be responsible for the bulk of the content out of the classroom. To that end, you will be responsible for reading the chapters in the textbook, as well as answering the Questions for Analysis for each of the documents and picture essays at the end of each chapter and handing them in the following week.

Film Journal – You will keep a movie journal, documenting your reactions to each film that we watch. Journal entries should be no less than 300 words, and be collected every 2-3 weeks. Though summary and opinion are often good places to start, entries should reach beyond this level to reflect critical thinking about the film. What strikes you as strange – or particularly well done? How does this film accord with what you have learned about the historical area it treats? How does it compare with a similar film or other works about the same historical period?

The homework assignments and the journal entries will be worth 25% of your total grade

Exams – You will have both a midterm and final take home exam that will cover material learned up to that point only. The midterm will be handed out during the class period immediately before spring break, and the final at the end of the semester. The exams will measure your ability to synthesize the information you have learned. The exams will be worth 25% of your total grade.

Research Paper – At the end of the semester, you will be required to complete a research paper (15 page minimum) that covers an important topic related to the course. I will allow you to choose your topic, but you need to hand in a topic proposal on what you will be writing by April 6th. I will go into more detail on the assignment as the semester progresses, but you should begin the thought process as soon as possible. The paper will be worth 50% of your total grade.

Grading System:

A = 94-100	C = 74-77
A = 90-93	C = 70-73
B+ = 88-89	D+ = 68-70
B = 80-83	D = 64-67
B- = 80-83	D- = 60-62
C+ = 78-79	F = Below 60

Paper Information

All written materials that are handed in must be typed, double spaced and follow the writing rubric that is at the end of this syllabus. If you have any trouble with writing, I strongly advise you visit the writing center and TASC in the library at both campuses. They are resources that you should use. Furthermore, the following web site will help answer many, if not all of your questions on writing:

Attendance:

Please look at the student handbook regarding the college's attendance policies. Because of the nature of this particular course, I will not tolerate lateness due to the showing of films.

Late Assignments

(Please note that none of following applies if we have made arrangements beforehand.)

All homework and journal assignments are due at the beginning of class on the due date. My policy on late assignments for this course is as follows: I will accept the first late writing assignment within a day that it is due, and give you partial credit. The second and subsequent late assignments will be given minimal credit if handed in late.

Exams will not be accepted late.

I will not accept any late final project unless arrangements have been made beforehand.

Disabilities Statement:

If you have a hidden or visible disability, which may require classroom or assignment modifications, you are obligated to come see me as soon as possible.

Academic Dishonesty:

Any form of cheating or plagiarism will be reported to the college immediately, and may result in the failure of an assignment or the course itself.

Essay and Research Paper Grading Rubric

	Excellent	Good	Needs	Poor	F
Overall Impression	Author directly addresses main question or issue, and adds new insight to the subject not provided in lectures, readings, or class discussions. The author has retained nearly all of the knowledge presented in class. He/She is able to synthesize this knowledge in new ways and relate to material not covered in the course.	Author competently addresses main question or issue, but does not add much new insight into the subject. That said, it is clear that the author has learned a great deal in class and is able to communicate this knowledge to others.	Improvement Author attempts to address main question or issue, but fails. The author has retained some information from the course, but does not fully understand its meaning or context and cannot clearly convey it to others.	Essay does NOT address main question or issue, and it is obvious that author has not retained any information from the course.	P L A G I A R I S M
Argument	Essay contains a clear argument—i.e., lets the reader know exactly what the author is trying to communicate.	An argument is present, but reader must reconstruct it from the text.	Author attempts, but fails, to make an argument (e.g., starts with a rhetorical question/statement or anecdote that is never put into context).	No attempt is made to articulate an argument.
Evidence	Provides compelling and accurate evidence that convinces reader to accept main argument. The importance/relevance of all pieces of evidence is clearly stated. There are no gaps in reasoning—i.e., the reader does not need to assume anything or do additional research to accept main argument.	Provides necessary evidence to convince reader of most aspects of the main argument but not all. The importance/ relevance of some evidence presented may not be totally clear. Reader must make a few mental leaps or do some additional research to fully accept all aspects of main argument.	Not enough evidence is provided to support author's argument, or evidence is incomplete, incorrect, or oversimplified. Information from lectures and readings is not effectively used.	Either no evidence is provided, or there are numerous factual mistakes, omissions or oversimplifications. There is little or no mention of information from lectures and readings.

Counter- Evidence	The author considers the evidence, or alternate interpretations of evidence, that could be used to refute or weaken his/her argument, and thoughtfully responds to it.	Author acknowledges that counter-evidence or alternative interpretations exists, and lists them fully, but does not effectively explain to reader why his/her argument still stands.	Author acknowledges some of the most obvious counter- evidence and alternative explanations, but is not comprehensive in this task. There is little or no	No acknowledgement of counter-evidence or alternative interpretations.
0	D.I.		attempt made to respond to them.	D
Note: You should always consult the assignment description to find out what kinds of sources are required.	Evidence is used from a wide range of sources, including lectures and course readings. When required, author also consults scholarly books, websites, journal articles, etc. not explicitly discussed in class.	Evidence is used from many sources, but author relies heavily on a more limited set of sources. Some effort is made to go beyond material presented in class when required, but not much. If outside sources are used, they are primarily non-scholarly (i.e., intended for a general audience) and/or web-based.	Uses only a few of the sources provided in class, or does not go beyond what has been provided by professor when required to do additional research.	Does not use sources, only minimally uses sources provided by instructor, or relies exclusively on non-scholarly outside sources.
Citations	All evidence is properly cited in footnotes or endnotes.	All evidence is cited in footnotes or endnotes, but there are some minor problems with completeness or format of some citations.	Some pieces are unreferenced or inaccurately referenced, and there are problems with completeness and format of citations.	No attempt is made to cite evidence.

			Improvement
Organization	Essay contains an intro, main body, and conclusion. Introduction lays out main argument and gives an outline of what the reader can expect in the essay. The conclusion brings everything together, acknowledges potential shortcomings of the paper, and gives the reader a sense of what further work might be done to advance the subject matter described in the paper.	Essay contains an intro, main body, and conclusion. The introduction lays out the main argument but gives the reader little idea of what to expect in the essay. The conclusion nicely summarizes the main argument and evidence, but does not move beyond what has already been presented in the paper.	Essay contains an intro, main body, and conclusion. The introduction gives the reader an idea of what to expect in the paper, but does not effectively lay out the main argument. It may begin with a set of rhetorical questions, or an anecdote that is never fully explained. The conclusion does little more than restate the problematic introduction. Intro and/or conclusion may be too wordy or short.	Essay has no clear organizational pattern.
Clarity and Style	All sentences are grammatically correct and clearly written. No words are misused or unnecessarily fancy. Technical terms, words from other languages, and words from other historical periods are always explained. All information is accurate and up-to-date. Paper has been spell-checked AND proofread (ideally by you and somebody else), and contains no errors.	All sentences are grammatically correct and clearly written.
