Course Description

This introductory course provides an overview of the theories and research findings pertaining to scientific psychology with an emphasis on: the origins of psychology, theoretical models, research methodology, biological bases of thought and behavior, memory, learning theory, sensation and perception, stress, as well as emotion and motivation.

Learning Objectives

The course will provide you with a broad introduction to psychological terms and concepts. Your instructor is present to help you create a great educational experience; my role is to provide support and assess your progress. You will have the opportunity to learn a variety of psychological theories and apply them to behavior and mental life. You will utilize the scientific method and research studies. You are encouraged to ask, “What is the evidence?” each time you encounter statements about human behavior. (Walsh, 2001) You may become a more successful college student after studying human memory. You will gain knowledge of the human nervous system, the anatomy of the senses and the manner in which perception formulates your personal reality. We will delve into motivation, emotions and learning. We will explore how an individual’s behavior is influenced by the complex interplay between environment, genetics, physiology and intrapsychic processes. The course emphasizes written communication skills, questioning and critical thinking.

Outside of class, utilize the interactive learning activities available on Blackboard. Keep current on global, national and local news, such events are often discussed in light of persons’ psychological functioning. Class time will be used in combinations of: didactic lecture, scholarly debate, writing, Internet exploration, film and small group work. You are encouraged to ask questions during class. “Judge a man by the questions he asks, rather than the answers he gives (Voltaire). Integrating the course into your work life, campus life and personal life is the goal.

Required Reading

Myers, David G. (2010). Psychology ninth edition in modules. New York: Worth.

A dictionary is needed to support your reading and writing. Use the text’s Study Guide.

The Reading Assignments

Concentration requires practice. The weekly reading assignments will follow the syllabus for the most part. The textbook is the central component of the course. Please be aware each module contains a plethora of data; keep up with the assignments. Use the text’s digital supplements found at <http://courses.bfwpub.com/myers9einmodules.php>

You are expected to come to each class having read the assignment and having thought critically about it. This will bolster your written and oral communication skills as well as group work.

Attendance

This course is based on teaching, learning and communication. Each of us has a responsibility to contribute to the learning of others through critical dialogue, and integrative and collaborative learning (Forando, 2009). Former students agree unequivocally that coming to class is essential for success in this course. If you miss more than 6 hours of class, regardless of the nature of the absences, you risk failure. If you miss a class, you are responsible for obtaining from a classmate information germane to that meeting (notes, changes in exam dates, etc.) Please let me know if you have any problems which cause an extended absence. By next week or so, consider introducing yourself to two classmates, note their names and e-mail addresses or telephone numbers on this syllabus.

Punctuality is imperative. Important information often is disseminated at the beginning of class and it shows respect for fellow learners. If you repeatedly come to class late, you will be marked absent. Absences affect your grade.

Integrity & Civility

You will be treated with respect and as honorable individuals. Note that academic dishonesty erodes the integrity of the College and devalues every degree granted. While the instructor encourages students to work together frequently, honesty in all academic work is expected of every student. This means papers shall be the original creation of each student and answers on examinations will be determined without help from auxiliary sources. If the instructor has any reason to question your conduct, the College's academic dishonesty policy will be followed.

We are here to learn from one another. A tone of civility and good will is expected. As adult college students, you are expected to behave as professionals – arrive prepared to work, display maturity and show respect to all. Cell phone conversations and text messaging are grounds for dismissal from class. Disrespect of your classmates and disruptive behaviors will not be tolerated.

Learning Needs

If you have difficulty with the course material, please see me during office hours or call me for an appointment. I am happy to clarify any questions you may have. Utilize office hours!

If you have special needs (such as a learning disability, physical condition, etc.) and require accommodations to enhance your participation in the class, please contact the Learning Specialist or Student Development Office. In order to provide accommodations, I must receive documentation pertaining to your needs. Effort will be made to support everyone's learning.

Examinations and Quizzes

Information concerning the paper will follow under separate cover. Examinations and quizzes will cover material from the assigned readings (whether discussed in class or not) and data we have discovered in class through video, Internet exploration, lecture or discussion. Do not wait until the exam date to evaluate your knowledge of psychological concepts, use the practice quizzes located at <http://courses.bfwpub.com/myers9einmodules.php>

If you miss a quiz you will receive a grade of zero. There are very few legitimate reasons for missing an exam. Make-up exams will be given only to students who have an acceptable reason for missing the exam, and only to students who have contacted the instructor in advance of the exam. It is your responsibility to petition the Instructor for the privilege of a make-up exam. If a student misses an exam for an unacceptable reason, a 0 will be averaged into the student's grade.

Withdrawal

If you choose to withdraw from the course, please notify the instructor via e-mail or telephone. Make sure you contact the Registration Office to complete the official procedures.
